Friday the 17th of May 2019 is Endangered Species Day. Take the time to create your own pipe cleaner Orangutan and learn about the importance of protecting endangered species!

SEARCH TERMS: orangutan, environment, animals

Materials:

- 10825 - Chenille Stems - Bright - Pack of 100
- 15173 - CleverPatch Glue Dots - Permanent - Pack of 300
- 10176 - Crayola Triangular Coloured Pencils Deskpack - Pack of 48
- 16142 - CleverPatch Cover Paper - White - A4 - Pack of 250
- 16232 - CleverPatch Triangular Coloured Markers - Pack of 10

How to:

STEP 1

Download and print the BLM template provided. Colour in your BLM and cut out using scissors. Adult supervision is recommended when using scissors.

STEP 2

Cut a chenille stem in half. Bend one half of the chenille stem into a semi-circle and attach around the belly of your Orangutan using glue dots.

STEP 3

The other half of the chenille stem will be the Orangutan's arms. Bend the chenille stem into a U shape.

STEP 4

Attach the chenille stem to the back of your Orangutan using a glue dot. Fold both ends of the U shaped chenille stem around your finger so that it looks as though the Orangutan is holding onto you.

STEP 5

Your Orangutan is now ready to hang out with you while you learn about endangered species!
